CFN – Members and supporters of the local newly re-branded Language Fairness for All – LFA group were joined by members of the Ottawa based umbrella group Canadians for Language Fairness outside of the Chesterville Legion this Wednesday evening. . The delegation was there in anticipation of an opportunity to bring their cause before James Moore, Minister of Canadian Heritage and Official Languages, who would deliver the keynote address to Conservative supporters at the $50 per plate fundraiser dinner about to take place inside and hosted by Stormont, Dundas and South Glengarry Member of Parliament Guy Lauzon. Upon his arrival, North Dundas Mayor, Eric Duncan, was approached by CLF president Chris Cameron and continued to be engaged

Mayor Eric Duncan & Chris Cameron chat.

While our camera was rolling. He told Cameron that: "it's a free country and you have every right to be here." When asked by Cameron if he feels that the percentage of bilingual service should be in accord with language demographics, Duncan agreed that is the democratic way. In spite of Cameron's assertion that 80% of the population is being discriminated against, Duncan was adamant that he saw no issue with the provincial's interpretation and application of the provincial French Language Services Act, saying: "I'm satisfied with what we have now and how it works out." Cameron inquired if Duncan is comfortable with the Health Unit being 100% bilingual, to which Duncan responded: "I don't know about the Health Unit in that regard." Some members of the local Richelieu Club arrived for the official function in order to hear the minister speak. On the way in,

"Everybody should have the same rights and opportunities across the board." He went on to add that: "The issue of language policy is not meant to be a barrier to the citizens themselves." The crowd quickly enlightened him that it is indeed a huge barrier, citing numerous examples. Later the minister acknowledged: "I understand how divisive language policy is and how frustrating it can be on all sides and in all parts of the country and that's not what language policy should be about."

Some members of the group called for a Canada-wide referendum on language policy. Although not at all outwardly hostile towards the crowd, it was clear that the minister was unprepared to address a delegation. In the midst of heated dialogue, Lauzon calmly advised the crowd that moments earlier he'd suggested that he and Cameron meet privately at another time to address and resolve concerns. Lauzon extended the offer to Minister Moore, who agreed to meet with representatives of both the CLF and the local LFA group in Ottawa. Business cards were exchanged with a promise to meet in the coming weeks while the House is still sitting.

Bud,
In response to:

"...use something was done to appease Quebec, does not make it right or just."
This is a gross misunderstanding of Canadian history and constitutional and legal history. The French explored and settled this land which was already inhabited by Indigenous people. There was a colonial settlement for the French colony, New France. In this sense, the land was occupied and the concept of land ownership arrived in North America. New France was conquered by the British. The French were ruled
